Digital key (RFID transponder)

In order to allow independent access to sensitive areas of Mönchengladbach Airport (MGL) - hereinafter referred to as the "Airport Operator" - resident aircraft operators, members of an operator association and contractual partners of MGL - hereinafter referred to as "Recipients" - have the opportunity to acquire a digital key, a so-called RFID transponder.

Please use the attached PDF application form and fill in the relevant fields digitally. If you are not a direct contractual partner of MGL, please provide the relevant contact details in the form.

Send the completed application in original PDF format along with a photo of the front and back of your valid ID card to: transponder@mgl.de.

The RFID card can be picked up at the Airport Operations (OPS) approximately 5 days after the application. The airport operator charges an administrative fee of €10.00 incl. VAT for issuing the transponder. The fee is non-refundable. The amount must be paid at the OPS.

The recipient is responsible for the safe storage of the transponder and is liable for any misuse. The recipient is also responsible for any consequences resulting from the loss of the transponder. Any loss of the transponder must be reported immediately to the traffic management, at the latest within 2 days. It is strictly forbidden to give the transponder to a third party.

The issue of a new transponder is subject to a fee. Any costs resulting from damage or loss of the transponder shall be borne by the recipient. Upon termination of the contract, the transponder must be returned to VKL at the airport. If the Recipient fails to return the transponder within 14 days of the end of the contract or after an explicit written request, the airport operator will charge a fee of € 95.00 plus VAT. The payment of this fee does not release you from your obligation to return the transponder.

The airport operator reserves the right to independently block the transponder in exceptional cases. This includes in particular a serious violation of the user regulations
